From the comic opera filled with pirates, Turkish princes, kidnapping and daring rescues, Mozart's The Abduction from the Seraglio is the piece of music that generated the (possibly fictional) "too many notes" story. It is written in the Turkish "janissary" style, a style of music that fascinated Europe at the time. In this arrangement, the right hand of the piano is frequently written 8va to help recreate the piccolo that figured prominently in the original.

Dvorak's 8th Symphony is often referred to as his Pastoral symphony for its optimistic and uplifting themes. With contrasting melancholy minor and lighthearted major folk-like melodies, this arrangement of the Adagio second movement features dramatic dynamics, solo lines, and thick, lush harmonies for advanced string orchestra. One of the best new pieces for advancing string orchestras that we have heard in years, this piece is destined to be a standard in the repertoire. Alan's pieces have a freshness that makes them always top sellers and most performed at major music conventions. We believe this piece to be one of his best in its stunning depiction of the beauty of Bainbridge Island located in the Puget Sound in Washington State. The pure natural beauty of this area is equally matched to the exquisite beauty of this new piece. (Pub)

This descriptive work stunningly depicts the beauty of Bainbridge Island located in the Puget Sound in Washington state. It has a "made-in-America" spirit and sound, merging the simplicity of folk song-like melodies with modern orchestration. (JWP)

Inspired by the climactic battle scene in Shakespeare's Henry V, Agincourt is a fiery, rhythmic piece in 7/8 time. Advanced orchestras will find the unusual rhythms an exciting challenge while audiences thrill to the expressive melodies and bold ostinatos throughout the piece. Agincourt is exhilarating and dramatic from its brash opening to its brazen end.

Composed shortly after his iconic New World Symphony, Dvorák's String Quartet No. 12 ("American") reflects the composer's fondness for America, during his tenure in New York and vacation in Iowa. Featuring a pentatonic scale and American folk-like melodies, the quartet has emerged as Dvorák's most popular chamber work.

A rousing concert ender, this work will challenge all sections with a wide range (every part shifts), running passage work, trills, and syncopated rhythms. The B section, a lyric waltz theme, shows off the principal players with extended solos. The return of the A section superimposes the waltz melody on the original syncopated theme for a wonderful conclusion. (JWP)

This theme to the television production of "The Civil War" is beautifully arranged by Calvin Custer for orchestra. (Pub)

The simple, memorable theme from the acclaimed PBS series makes excellent concert fare. Calvin Custer's realistic treatment includes the easy violin solo, piano and percussion. This is technically quite easy, but very emotional. (JWP)

The sentimental lyrics of Auld Lang Syne are based on a Scottish poem by Robert Burns from 1788. The music is a pentatonic Scot folk melody that was probably originally performed at a moderately fast tempo. The song gradually became famous for being a worldwide tradition at the end of New Year's celebrations. This beautiful and emotional version uses lush modern harmonies and moving inner voices to ask the sentimental question, "should old times be forgotten?" A touching piece of music to end your annual winter concert, or for any other time that a highly original, breathtakingly beautiful string setting is appropriate! (Pub)

Harry Alshin brings us a well-orchestrated taste of Rossini's famous opera. Students will enjoy playing the themes they may have heard for years. The first violins get a real workout while supporting parts are animated and fun to play. Range is limited to third position for violins with optional position work for other instruments. An excellent opportunity to refine spiccato and martelé bowing, this piece is sure to become a favorite in the literature transcribed for strings. It also works well as a companion to Mr. Alshin's arrangement of "Figaro" from the same opera. (Pub)

This is an absolute joy to play and hear! Harry Alshin has done a superb job adapting this perennial favorite for school string orchestras. All the parts are animated and fun to play, and it will give your students a musical experience they won't forget! (JWP)

"Bossa Verde" is a very pretty bossa nova over familiar chord changes for string ensemble and rhythm section. This piece is accessible for younger players and interesting for the experienced players. Counterpoint is contrasted with ensemble playing and room for improvisation. Beginning improvisers will be successful playing in the key of one sharp and experienced players will enjoy digging into the chord changes. Suggested written out solos are provided in all parts so no improvisation is required. This piece was performed at the 2003 ASTA convention in Ohio. (Pub)

This staple of the string orchestra repertoire, composed in 1927, is based on a suite of six Renaissance dances. Each dance offers a different mood and rhythm, and together they form an excellent concert work. Original edition. (JWP)

 "Peter Warlock" was a pseudonym for Philip Heseltine, an Anglo-Welsh music critic of the early 20th century. Warlock (who also wrote the well-known "Three Carols" in The Oxford Book of Carols) originally wrote Capriol Suite for piano duet, but it is his own arrangement for string orchestra that is enduringly regarded by musicians and listeners alike, thanks to Warlock's treatment of ancient dance and folksong combined with a 20th century compositional approach. (1 of 8) Violin I

Warlock's enigmatic "Capriol Suite" has long been a favorite for orchestra concert and contest events. Two of the most famous movements, Basse-Danse and Mattachins (Sword Dance), are adapted here for intermediate orchestra, allowing younger students to experience the high-energy melodies and unique harmonies of these popular dances. These thoughtfully-arranged pieces work well at a variety of tempi, from moderate to presto, according to the ensemble's ability. An exciting concert opener or closer! (Pub)

"Peter Warlock" was a pseudonym for Philip Heseltine, an Anglo-Welsh music critic of the early 20th century. Warlock (who also wrote the well-known "Three Carols" in The Oxford Book of Carols) originally wrote Capriol Suite for piano duet, but it is his own arrangement for string orchestra that is enduringly regarded by musicians and listeners alike, thanks to Warlock's treatment of ancient dance and folksong combined with a 20th century compositional approach. A "must" for your string library! (Pub)

This staple of the string orchestra repertoire, composed in 1927, is based on a suite of six Renaissance dances. Each dance offers a different mood and rhythm, and together they form an excellent concert work. Original edition. (JWP)

After a short, chant-like opening featuring bass and cello, this work moves quickly into a jig. Featuring a solo violin, this section establishes a solid groove and works exceptionally well for string orchestra. A reel establishes the final section and the work accelerates to a joyous conclusion. (Pub)

This one has it all! A slow introduction, evocative of an ancient chant, breaks through to a sprightly jig that features solo violin. Once the full orchestra has joined into the rollicking tune, the solo fiddle takes it up another notch by introducing an even faster reel. The excitement builds as each section joins in and accelerates to the rousing finish! (JWP)

As seen in the mind-boggling Trans-Siberian stage show! This thought-provoking medley of Christmas tunes describes a lone cellist playing Christmas carols in the midst of the Bosnian war. The piece reflects the power, drama, and hope of a single musician in the midst of war, reflecting on the power of music to bring hope. The rock rhythm section contributes to an intense and very hip musical experience. Perhaps include a field trip to see the band live with lights and effects. (Pub)

In this arrangement, the 8-part concertino/ripieno texture has been compressed into a 4-part string orchestra. While the difficult contrapuntal lines have been modified, no cuts have been made in the music. This arrangement works extremely well as chamber music, with one player per part, or with an entire string orchestra. (Pub)

Violin 2	8	Cello	5		0	0	0

Knee slappin' and stompin' fun! Immerse yourself in a wagon hayride, square dancing, and even a good old-fashioned barn raising. With open stringed double stops, integration of melody in all voices and some interactive rhythms based on clapping and stomping, players will want to yell out a few "Yee-haws" as they get into the action! (Pub)

Soon Hee Newbold delivers a kicky romp, inspired by traditions of the American outlands. This lively piece demonstrates the contrast of legato quarter notes versus percussive eighth notes, and brims with clever syncopations and section features. (JWP)

The magical setting of this cherished melody combines exquisite orchestration with dramatic harmonies. At times, the arrangement is quite plaintive sounding, which is balanced with more contemporary harmonies and powerful counter melodies. Endless opportunities for music making abound, and there certainly will not be a dry eye in the house when the group plays the final chord after a haunting violin solo. Inspirational (Pub)

This arrangement is a setting of Londonderry Air, the popular anthem from northern Ireland. The tune was given lyrics in 1913 by an English lawyer named Frederick Edward Weatherly, and would then become known as Danny Boy. (SMP)

A suite on Panamanian dance themes collected by Elizabeth Waldo, for either string quartet or string orchestra. There is a distinct unity and a touch of Caribbean color in the four dances. The first and last are African in origin, probably brought by the first slaves imported into Panama, while the second and third are of Spanish-Indian derivation. 1. Tamborito: This dance is performed with percussive instruments and voice, or with strings and percussion. The drum introduction is repeated at the end of the dance. 2. Mejorana: Usually in the major mode, the Mejorana is improvisatory in style. The instruments used are the Mejoraneras (guitars playing in counterpoint) and the Rabel (three-stringed violin). 3. Punto: This is a graceful dance in six-eight time, distinguished by the Zapateo (shoe-tapping) section and a Paseo (Promenade), which occur in the Mejorana as well. 4. Cumbia: Most sensuous of all the dances, and completely lacking in European elements. When it is danced in the streets, the women hold lighted candles in their upraised hands, while the men dance about them in an abandoned manner. A more refined Cumbia is adopted for other occasions. (Pub)

This Far-Eastern style work is sure to become a bestseller this year! An ostinato figure is presented in the violins before the lower voices introduce the melody. A pizzicato section gives the work a very unique and authentic sound. Strongly consider this work for your next performance. (Pub)

Here's a very creative and exciting work with an exotic Far-Eastern sound. First the upper strings create anticipation with an ostinato pattern that continues as the lower strings present the main melody. Later, a quiet pizzicato section by all players brings to mind the sound of oriental stringed instruments. This is an excellent work that is suited for all players at the easy to medium easy level. Using only the notes of the D major scale, Richard Meyer has fashioned a medieval-sounding piece that is sure to fascinate your beginning string students. The minor key, modal harmonies and driving rhythms give this piece a very mature sound. The aggressive main theme is introduced by violins and violas, with cello and bass in counterpoint. The theme later returns in canon, with cellos and basses being chased (hunted) by the violins and violas. Very dramatic from start to finish! (Pub)

There's a dragon on the loose (you can hear him in the bass and cello sections) and your strings are in on the hunt! The medieval-sounding excitement is all created using notes from the D scale, no slurs, and no sixteenth notes. (JWP)

Beethoven's Egmont Overture is one of the most famous pieces in the orchestral repertoire. Until now, there has not been a string version that captures the full effect of the original. Since many directors have expressed the need for good literature for larger string programs, Robert McCashin is pleased to offer this shorter arrangement which effectively utilizes the full string orchestra. Excellent for exposing your students to a classic without having to recruit wind players. (Pub)

Magnificent! String players have gained a new addition to the string repertoire with this arrangement of Beethoven's most famous overture. The strings have been split in 8 voices: 4 violin, 2 viola, 1 cello, and 1 bass, making this ideal for larger, more mature string programs, combined or mass string orchestras, or even to be played as an octet in chamber music programs. "El Toro" is a Spanish dance reminiscent of an exciting bullfight in Madrid. (El toro means "the bull" in Spanish.) After a castanet-style introduction, the theme is passed from high strings to low strings and back again. A transition leads to a stop in the action of the bullfight where the matador (a solo violin) and the bull (a solo cello) "discuss" the situation. Then the fight gradually picks up again and the theme is restated. The exciting castanet-like rhythm brings the fight to an end. (Pub)

This bold Spanish composition includes easy solos for violin and cello. The excitement and color of the bullfight are displayed in the playable music. (JWP)

Maurice Ravel composed Mother Goose (Ma mère l'oye) as a suite in five movements for piano four hands between 1908-10. He orchestrated the suite in 1911. "The Enchanted Garden (Le Jardin féérique)," the final movement in the suite, is a beautiful, solemn work that starts slowly and builds to a rousing climax. Set in C major, this shimmering impressionist piece of literature for intermediate orchestra helps develop bow control, vibrato and expressive dynamic playing. (Pub)

Impressionistic sounds will fill your concert hall this year as you perform this subtle work orchestrated by Ravel in 1911. This final movement of the Mother Goose Suite is a beautiful, solemn work that starts slowly and builds to a rousing climax. Set in C major, this is a wonderful work that helps develop bow control, vibrato and expressive dynamic playing. (JWP)

Based on the classic Edgar Allan Poe short story The Tell-Tale Heart, composer Alan Lee Silva shows a more dramatic and darker side to his writing. Originally commissioned as a work reminiscent of a classic Hollywood horror movie theme, the piece follows the story of one of Poe's most famous thrillers. An excellent literary tie-in for your students studying the structure of a story in Language Arts, it appeals to their sense of mystery with a delicious touch of the macabre. The basses act as the low, ominous threat of danger, and the upper voices represent the insanity of the narrator's twisted plan. A real thriller! (Pub)

This is the original orchestral version of Vaughan Williams' famous fantasia which first appeared in his opera "Sir John in Love". Apart from the main folk-tune "Greensleeves", the centre section uses another folk-tune entitled "Lovely Joan". This version, adapted and arranged by Ralph Greaves, has been popular in the concert hall and in recordings since it first appeared.

Now out of print in the Oxford University Press catalogue, this work has been newly engraved and reissued in this Goodmusic edition but otherwise unaltered. (Pub)

Here is the original and beloved fantasia that calls for string orchestra, harp, and two soloists-usually flutes but often substituted with violins. This lush arrangement of the English folksong is a classic in the string repertoire and a wonderful example of the Vaughan Williams sound. A must-have for every orchestra library! (JWP)

The mood is further expressed in the gradual minor to major progression that takes place from the beginning of the piece to the end. Intense and rhythmically exciting, Final Quest is sure to wow them at your next concert! (Pub)

Unique and captivating with a bold contemporary sound! A relentless rhythmic drive is created by the constant sixteenth-note pulse that passes from section to section. This creates a sense of excitement and anticipation that permeates the music from its intense minor mode beginning, to the romantic slow interlude, to its rich and full-sounding major key conclusion. Exciting music! (JWP)

This stunning arrangement truly captures the essence of Tchaikovsky's Serenade for Strings. Featuring the last movement, the work begins with a grand and legato Maestoso, which is then followed by the light and energized Allegro con spirito. Directors can use this as an introduction to cut-time or stay in a quick 4/4 depending on student ability. Fabulous! (Pub)

A standard classical masterpiece expertly adapted for young strings orchestras. An excellent selection for exposing young players to classic repertoire. Cut time, simple tempo changes, scalar eighth note passages and a variety of bowings and dynamics are explored. Violin 2/Viola are doubled. An excellent choice for concert or contest! (JWP)

Composed in 1914 in the era of Holst's Saint Paul Suite and Warlok's Capriol Suite this is a fine work for developing string orchestras. The Folk Tune offers lyrical passages while the Fiddle Dance gives both violins and violas idiomatic fiddling passages. (JWP)

A long-time favorite for festival and contest, Percy Fletcher's two-movement suite has been a choice teaching piece for school orchestras. In true English folk style, the first movement has multiple sections in varying styles and meters, and the second movement is rhythmic, energetic fiddle writing at its best. (SMP)

The ancient, brooding stone protectors are brought to life with fury and flourish in this dramatic concert piece. Growling melodies are passed between all sections of the orchestra while the modal harmonies evoke ancient chants. The notes and rhythms are accessible for younger students, and more advanced players can use Gargoyles to reinforce spiccato bowing techniques. This piece is sure to keep audiences on the edge of their seats! (Pub)

This is one you won't want to miss. A fiery ostinato pattern in a minor mode sets the mood for this dark-sounding musical adventure. Melodic fragments pass from one section to another as the tension builds. This is exciting music and your students will love playing it! (JWP)

The dark harmonies and driving tempo of this original overture are sure to make this one a favorite with your students. Designed to reinforce B-flats, this piece highlights every section of the orchestra using a bold, contemporary sound not often found in music at this level. (Pub)

The driving rhythmic intensity of the music is something rarely found at this level! Combine that with its darker modal sound and you get a captivating work your students will love to learn. Like music in the climactic scene of a movie, short repeated motives are passed among the sections, building tension from start to finish! Your players and audience will be thrilled with this one! Imagine a fantasy based on all six of the Brandenburg Concerti! This seven-part piece includes fabulous features for each section of the string orchestra framed by an Introduction and a Finale both based on Brandenburg 3. (Pub)

 Imagine a fantasy based on all six of the "Brandenburg Concerti!" Not just a cute novelty, but an entirely new work! It captures the spirit of the "Brandenburgs," but sets most of them in minor keys, or uses darker tones, pizzicato, and meter changes J.S. Bach would never have imagined! This is an inventive and challenging work that will take your intermediate strings on an almost nine-minute tour de force that will build their endurance along with their musicality! Highly recommended for concert and contest! (JWP)

Looking to introduce your orchestra to the glorious music of Antonio Vivaldi? This string orchestra arrangement of the first movement from Vivaldi's choral masterwork is the perfect introduction for young string players. It retains the composer's key of D Major and features solo/soli parts for your advanced players. The opportunity to teach or reinforce hooked bowing and the bow lift is present in each section of the orchestra. Everyone in your orchestra will enjoy the rhythmic vitality and harmonic beauty of this enduring masterwork. (Pub)

In the Company of Angels is a gentle ballad requiring an extremely legato style, a solid focus on good intonation, and sensitivity to the dynamic contrasts. The score is written for string orchestra and harp. The harp adds a special timbre, but is optional and the piece is entirely playable without the harp part. In the Company of Angels, uniquely enough, connects the journeys of two special people: a young violinist from Elmhurst, Illinois and lifetime educator Dorothy Straub. Through their experience of music...their excitement with music, they bring today's musicians and audiences a fitting legacy, through the inspiration and mastery of William Hofeldt. (Pub)

This gorgeous and gentle ballad is dedicated to a young violinist from Elmhurst, Illinois, as well as Ms. Dorothy Straub, whose lifelong career in music education has touched students and educators worldwide for decades. Includes an optional (and highly recommended) harp part. (JWP)

"Energetic" and "hard-driving" best describe this tour de force for high school orchestra. Two solo violins and a solo viola introduce this piece through a haunting, lyrical theme. The theme is subsequently taken up by the entire orchestra and expanded, gradually morphing into a fast and frenetic second theme that is aggressive and virtuosic in nature. This second theme is developed in an equally vigorous pizzicato section. The two themes are then heard at the same time, each vying for attention. The pace slackens momentarily before a wildly frantic coda closes the piece. Full of color and intriguing tonalities, this highly original work gives every section of the mature string orchestra a chance to shine. (Pub)

This French-inspired work describes the magic of a winter scene, where snow is quietly falling and icicles are forming on trees. The beautiful melody begins in the violins with the rest of the ensemble playing pizzicato in a supportive role. As the entire ensemble moves to the bow, the melodic line continues to grow until the entire ensemble soars in a magical climactic moment before the tension releases and the group fades to a single note. Absolutely gorgeous and very accessible. (Pub)

Hector Berlioz wrote his Symphonie Fantastique in 1830, which tells the story of various episodes in the life of a troubled artist who poisons himself with opium. He is searching for true love, and the theme representing this love appears in all five movements. In March to the Scaffold, the artist has a terrible dream that he has killed his true love and is condemned to death by execution. The March alternates the sound of heavy footsteps with wild outbursts. This skilled arrangement will introduce your students to a great classic in the orchestral music literature. (Pub)

"Mele Kalikimaka," the closest approximation of saying "Merry Christmas" that there is in the Hawaiian language, was written in 1949 and recorded by Bing Crosby and The Andrews Sisters in 1950. This first rendition of the tune is still popular today and many of your students and audience members will recognize it with delight! It is almost impossible not to sing the syncopated title phrase and beginning it on an up-bow helps create accents and fun! The accidentals are all familiar ones that give the piece color and interesting parts. Every section has their own entrances and gets a chance to play the main melodies and important supporting parts. "Mele Kalikimaka," arranged by Jan Farrar-Royce, is a fun and musically educational way to celebrate the holiday season! (Pub)

Originally, a seven-part chamber work, this intermediate work has something for everyone. It divides the orchestra into first, second and third violin, viola, first and second cello, and bass. String orchestras of every size can perform this arrangement, and it makes a wonderful festival finale. The jaunty themes and layered counterpoint insure that the work will be a delight for both performers and audiences. (Pub)

"Always merry and bright" is how Grainger described this cheerful tune! Composed in the style of the traditional English "Morris Dance," this completely original work could be described as sort of an English "Brandenburg Concerto." Delightful! (JWP)

Rich musically, and approachable technically, your orchestra will feel like professional symphony performers with this sampler of tunes from Dvorák's most famous symphony. Representing three of the four movements, this masterful arrangement makes full use of all the sonorities available to the orchestra. Simply outstanding! (Pub)

Your orchestra will feel a great sense of accomplishment when they perform this well-arranged sampler of tunes from Dvorak's most famous symphony! This medley moves from one famous theme to another and manages to give the violas and cellos some really nice parts! This masterful arrangement makes a great addition to any performance! Simply outstanding! (JWP)

Dvorak's masterpiece New World Symphony was written in 1893, the same year that American String Quartet was written. This most famous of his symphonies endears itself to its audiences through the folk character and simplicity of its melodies and rhythms. The tunes and motives are reminiscent of the American folk styles that Dvorak was exploring while visiting the United States, and of the Bohemian folk style that he knew so well from his Czech home. Musically rich and technically approachable, this arrangement is a sampler for young musicians. Three of the four movements from the symphony are represented. (SMP)

Expressing the many different moods and events of a storm, the opening begins with the violins playing a gripping ostinato pattern suggesting that a storm is coming. The first two themes convey the erratic tendency of powerful gusty winds. The storm moves into a peaceful lull with a melancholy third theme played by a solo violin and viola. The storm then grows in intensity as the final statement combines all the elements (or themes) of the storm. (Pub)

One of the most entertaining and useful sounds that string performers can bring to a concert stage is the pizzicato effect of the "plucked" string. What better way to describe (and to hear) this resonant phenomenon than in Leroy Anderson's classic Plink, Plank, Plunk. The title says it all! (Pub)

 Pizzicato playing is fascinating to play and to watch, but coming from the skilled pen of Leroy Anderson, it becomes an event! Let your kids put down their bows and dazzle the audience with this one! (All sections get to make the "squeak" special effect!) In 1874, the "Promenade and Great Gate of Kiev" was composed by Modest Mussorgsky as part of a 10 section piano work entitled, "Pictures at an Exhibition". In 1922, French composer Maurice Ravel made an orchestra version which has become standard in every professional orchestra's repertoire. Arranger Bobrowitz has made a very playable string orchestra version of two sections of this masterwork. His Promenade version is written in 4/4, 3/4 and 2/4 thereby reducing the difficulty of Mussorgsky's complex piano version. There are several Promenades in the piece, and Bobrowitz has chosen the opening one. In order to set up the Great Gate section which is in F, the Promenade appropriately ends on a C chord.

The Great Gate of Kiev is an abridged version that captures all the power of the full original. This is a version which will thrill your audiences time and time again! (Pub)

The title refers to the Latin word for "rhythm" as well as to the ancient Greek term meaning symmetry, harmony, and rhythm in music or speech. This original work for string orchestra explores a variety of interlocking rhythmic structures that support a solemn melody in A minor. The theme moves through several dramatic modal shifts, with a spiccato rhythmic motif re-appearing throughout the sections of the orchestra. (Pub)

A series of driving and interlocking rhythms under a flowing and dramatic minor melody create an exciting and intense musical experience that will be a favorite of both players and concertgoers. Three Spirituals provides a novel approach to three familiar spirituals. Swing Low Sweet Chariot is presented in a style reminiscent of Dvorak's American String Quartet with its driving inner parts and exhilarating treatment of the melody. The presentation of Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen conveys the sorrow and despair using an interesting mix of tonal colors and chords. With modern harmonies and catchy rhythms, Ride That Chariot completes this challenging work that is also fun to play. (Strings Sheet Music)

This humorous nod to the "B" monster movies of the 1950s is sure to be the hit of your next concert! The blood-curdling scream in the introduction sets the mood for the wild ride ahead. A great way to introduce your students to a variety of modern techniques and effects, including glissandos, Bartók pizzicatos, ponticello and more. . . . all clearly explained and notated. The only trouble you'll have with this piece is getting your students to stop playing it! (Pub)

Don't miss this! If there is one piece your developing orchestra will love rehearsing and performing, it's this one! This programmatic piece spins a tale of mayhem and mischief as the rosin eating zombies take over your stage complete with blood-curdling screams, glissandos, ponticello and more. All the eerie effects are clearly explained and notated, so the only trouble you'll have is getting your students to stop playing it. It's a wild ride you won't want to miss! (JWP)

A short piece that is packed with valuable teaching points, this dance in D minor introduces 16th notes and two note slurs, some of which include string crossings. Upper strings use low-1 and 2 finger patterns, cellos play backward extensions, and basses use half position. The contrasting lyric theme combines with the opening motif for a dramatic ending. (Pub)

Full of driving rhythmic figures, vigorous themes and popping bass lines, this shortened and simplified version of Glinka's masterpiece brings it within reach of nearly all moderate-toadvanced high school performers. Excellent writing that is sure to be a highlight of your next performance! (Pub)

Although an overture, Glinka fashioned this introduction to his second opera in a Classical sonata form. His use of enchanting Persian influenced totalities expanded the breadth of European classical music of the late 1800's and offers a rewarding challenge for confident string groups. (JWP)

Violinist and composer Soon Hee Newbold offers this delightful new work based on the sounds of Russia. You'll be amazed at how interesting this work can sound using note values no smaller than a quarter note. Simple imitation enhances the overall sound and helps students learn to play independently of each other without having to learn a new part. Violin 2 doubles the viola to provide flexible performing options. Exquisite writing for beginning orchestras from one of the country's most respected string composers! (Pub)

Here is some exquisite writing for beginning orchestra! The B minor/modal tonality brings out that melancholy Russian sound while using notes familiar to all players. Thanks to some simple imitation, easy divisi writing, and doubling of viola by violin 2, this work sounds rich and interesting while using only quarter, half, and whole note values. Piano is optional. (JWP)

Take your students on a desert caravan in this fun and exciting piece written to introduce low first-finger notes (E-flat and B-flat). All students-even your more advanced players-will love the Far Eastern harmonic minor sound, complete with bouncing cello/bass accompaniment and parts for tambourine and finger cymbals. Very mature sounding, yet simple. A great teaching piece! (Pub)

Sounds of a desert caravan are found in this fun and exciting original by Richard Meyer. It's an excellent piece to reinforce the tonal color of low first finger notes (Eb and Bb). The bouncing cello and bass parts and optional tambourine and finger cymbal parts add just the right exotic flavor. Wonderful! (JWP)

Recreating the stylistic and formal ideals of the early Classical symphonic format, this rewarding original features vigorous opening and closing themes with a gentle, lyrical theme between. Even at softer dynamic levels, Del Borgo says that tone should be strong and well-focused, and the finale should be played with great energy and conviction. Perfect as a concert opener or closer! This arrangement of Rimsky-Korsakov's setting of the Russian national hymn retains the character of the original scoring for chorus and orchestra by having half the orchestra play the choral line, while the other half plays the instrumental accompaniment. It requires extensive divisi playing and is best suited to a large, advanced group. (Pub)

The theme of this majestic setting is an old national hymn of Russia which was also used in the Coronation Scene of Mussorgsky's 'Boris Godunov' and quoted in Beethoven's String Quartet Op. 59, #2 in E minor. Rimsky-Korsakoff's original setting for chorus and full orchestra is skillfully rendered for string orchestra in this outstanding edition by Sandra Dackow. (JWP)

Rosin up and let's riff and rock with THE heavy-metal standard from Deep Purple. Forget that it was a hit in the '70s and that strings don't typically "get down" a little, because today's string kids will love it. Larry Moore has even provided a spot for an optional guest guitar soloist (like your principal who knows 3 chords on his vintage Les Paul). (Pub)

Apparently, funky Claude was running in and out! This is a rock riff for the ages and everyone seems to know it. Arranged here for your young strings to get a break from too much serious music! (JWP)

This energetic and spooky scherzo is a great piece for teaching the key of G minor to a young orchestra. It features a melody based on a scale in broken thirds with short fast bow strokes. All the instruments get the melody and the double basses get lots of interesting material. Some shifting to 3rd position for first violin and bass is included as well as 2nd position for cello. Perfect for developing trills, dynamics, and bow distribution, this piece also includes several poco rits and fermatas for teaching tempo changes. (Pub)

Best known for his full orchestral suite "The Planets," Holst also wrote some particularly beautiful string music. This suite is a prime example of his writing based on folk tunes. Unsimplified, this is a worthy piece for the best of orchestras! (JWP)

St. Paul's Suite continues as one of Holst's most remembered works for strings, written when he was an educator at the St. Paul's School for Girls. In four movements, the style reflects the craftsmanship of Holst's transformation of simple English folk tunes into powerful symphonic settings. (SMP)

Three guesses what this one's all about...yep, it's a Southern-style hoedown! Fun open string double stops and simple, repetitive figures help make this tune a winner with both students and parents. Of course, the part your orchestra will like best is when they get to "stomp" their feet (in rhythm, we hope!). There's even a "hey" at the end...great fun for all, and guaranteed to give a boost to your program! (JWP)

This suite for string orchestra is in four movements, each based on a well-known folk song. They are "A-roving", "I have a bonnet trimmed with blue", "O waly waly" and "Dashing away". (Pub)

In the tradition of Britten, Holst, and Vaughan Williams before him, British composer John Rutter has composed a wonderful work for strings based on the rich legacy of folk music of the British Isles. World renowned for his choral music, John Rutter's work for strings has become a modern classic. This work is based on four folk songs: They Are A-Roving; I Have a Bonnet Trimmed with Blue; O Waly Waly (The Water Is Wide) and Dashing Away. Give your orchestra a chance to play this wonderful work! (JWP)

It is never too early to introduce students to the artistry of Mahler and this ländler is a great way to accomplish that goal. This arrangement is especially effective in reducing the work from full to string orchestra. The illusion of the original colors has largely been retained, while the structural alterations are subtle and balanced. (Pub)

Robert D. McCashin has put substantial effort into this arrangement to make it as true to Haydn's original intent as possible. As a result, this work captures and retains the bright spirit of the first movement that has made it such a popular work. Moreover, this arrangement brings the piece to a musical and technical level that school orchestras can enjoy. A masterful arrangement. (Pub)

Here is music from Haydn's days! Composed late in his career, "The London Symphonies" came after the death of Mozart, and before the first symphony of Beethoven, and were literally the pinnacle of the Classical period. Symphony 104 is the most well-known of these and this arrangement is as true to Haydn's original intent as possible. Your players will capture the bright spirit of the music and rise in their technical and musical levels as they do it. (JWP)

The new Masterworks Series by Carl Fischer Music will showcase arrangements of 20th Century American composers. Symphony No. 2 by Howard Hanson is one of the most popular American Symphonies ever written, and is played regularly by major symphony orchestras around the world. It was originally commissioned by the Boston Symphony Orchestra to celebrate their 50th anniversary in 1930, where it was given its first performance. The work was most famously used in the end credits of the movie Alien in 1979. This arrangement focuses on the hauntingly beautiful second theme of the first movement. After being stated in the key of E-flat Major, it provides a contrasting section before returning in the key of D-flat Major. Cellos are featured prominently in tenor clef, and often cover the soaring horn solos from the original. Musicians will experience true symphonic beauty in this exquisite arrangement for strings and harp. (Pub)

William Grant Still's Symphony No. 2 was premiered in 1937 by the Philadelphia Orchestra. The work, subtitled "Song of a New Race," infuses elements of blues and jazz into the classical form, creating a uniquely blended sound to reflect Still's vision of an increasingly diverse American culture. Originally composed for full orchestra, this slightly abridged version for string orchestra includes the original harp part, honoring the legacy of one of America's greatest composers. (Pub)

William Boyce was an English composer who lived in the same time as Handel. This arrangement of music from his elegant and graceful Fourth Symphony is an excellent addition to concert and contest literature by renowned composer Elliot Del Borgo. A great vehicle for working on the Baroque style, this piece will help students immensely in learning to play contrapuntal music. An especially nice segment featuring 2nd violins and violas makes this an outstanding choice for developing orchestras. (Pub)

Two of the most memorable themes from Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone are scored for beginning strings with the colorful textures and flowing melodies intact. The chromatic nature of the harmony is staged in the accompanying piano part, which lays a solid rhythmic foundation. This combination of "Hedwig's Theme" and "Harry's Wondrous World" is approachable during the second year of instruction or with ambitious beginners. These themes will certainly please students and audiences alike. (Pub)

Featuring key themes from Vivaldi's choral masterwork, this arrangement in the original key of D major is marked by driving rhythms and clarity. In his score notes arranger Alshin explains the importance of using a correct Baroque bowing style, where rhythms are articulated in a semi-marcato style and played on the upper half of the bow. (Pub)

Here, in a straightforward, very clean arrangement, are well-known themes from Vivaldi's "Gloria." A good vehicle for teaching Baroque-style bowing, this piece will also sound great in concert. (JWP)

First released in 1963, this theme-and-variations setting of the great Civil War song takes some refreshing liberties with the old favorite. After the tune is played in traditional 6/8 style, a lyrical section in 3/4 presents melodic elements in elongation. Next comes an allegro rendering in 2/4, followed by a spirited recap in 6/8 to bring it all to a fitting conclusion. (Pub)

This easy arrangement offers you multiple performance opportunities! Vivaldi's lyrical second movement, now transposed to G major, is simple enough for the violin, viola, or cello soloist of your choice! Perform with one or more soloists! This slow movement is literally the "Calm between Storms." Vivaldi's text to accompany this is: Spending quiet contented days by the fire while the rain outside drenches people by the hundreds. The music presents a lovely lyrical solo melody as the pizzicato accompaniment reflects the raindrops outside. Your students will rise to the challenge and enjoy playing both the solo part and the accompaniment part! (Pub)

This arrangement is simple enough for the violin, viola, or cello soloist of your choice! Vivaldi's lyrical second movement, now in G Major, stays true to the original with the famous melody over pizzicato accompaniment. The violin solo is entirely in first position, and the viola and cello soloists only need to know the first three notes they learn in third position: D, E, and F sharp on the A string! (JWP)

A staple of orchestral literature since its first performance in 1831, this arrangement presents four themes of the original and contains lots of drama and even more excitement. (Pub)

The overture from "Zampa," an opera by Ferdinand Herold, has become a staple of orchestral literature since its first performance in 1831. Just under four minutes, this arrangement presents four themes from the original and contains lots of drama and even more excitement. The key of G major provides easily accessible third-position work for the first violins and shifting for cello and bass. A great concert or festival selection! (JWP)
